In the time ....

• Inclusive childcare service Topolino
• Since 1992
• Goal: offer to the little ones a learning ground leading to autonomy
• 25% of the places are reserved to children with special needs
Contribution of the APEMH in the non formal education sector

Fundamental questions:

• How do we develop and promote inclusion in child care services?

• Multiply offers or be multiplier?
Training offers

• Training: "Oser la diversité - Dare diversity"
• 6-days training for professionals
• Sensibilisation of the sector
Publication

- Documentation and analysis of the inclusive practices of the child care service TOPOLINO
- Best practice
- 8 Recommendations
- 2011-2012
Five key recommendations

- The inclusive approach must be supported by the directorates, respectively by the municipal authorities.

- There is a need for lifelong learning and coaching.

- It is important to mobilize all available resources.
✓ It is important to encourage the participation of all actors.

✓ It is advisable to organize heterogeneous groups, groups presenting more diversity at the level of the age of children.
It’s normal to be different”
(Gunnar und Rosemary Dybwad, 1977)
Implementation of a Resource Center in 2012

- Educational and training resource center for inclusion
- A support to promote and develop inclusive child care services
- Goal: encourage the development of inclusive approaches and practices to increase the number of child care services implementing such an approach
Objectives

- Raising awareness to the subject of including children with special needs in mainstream child care services
- Support professionals in working out projects for children with special needs
- Develop the professional skills of child care providers to meet the needs of children with disabilities in an inclusive setting

2015

• Publication “Child care services for all”, in collaboration with the Ministry for Education, Children and Youth and the National Youth Service

• For professionals working in the non-formal education system

• Content:
  ➢ Theoretical part
  ➢ Guidelines for the implementation of an inclusive approach
  ➢ Testimonials of concrete experiences from the field
Basic principles of an inclusive approach

• The child as actor of his own competences

• Environment adapting to the needs of the child

• Equality of opportunity and equity of means
Testimony of a mother of a child with special needs

I received photos of the nursery yesterday and this photo took my breath away, for me it is the perfect image of inclusion. C. who does everything like other children but with an extra hand that allows him to do it. I do not know who this hand belongs to, but that's also what's beautiful - in fact it was about twenty hands at the nursery who played that role.
An inclusive approach means...

• that every child is welcome
Valuing diversity
An inclusive approach means...

- that every child is welcome
- that the needs of the child are being taken in account
- setting up situations throughout the institution that encourage the participation and interaction of all children
- teamwork in partnership with the families
- the absence of barriers both within the institution and in the minds of the professionals
Valuing all forms of communication

- Among other things, we simplified the house rules with the help of pictograms, which were then imitated and photographically recorded by the children, so that the children could better understand and internalize the rules. “
Structuring the space

Moyen pour chacun de savoir où sont rangés ses vêtements grâce aux étiquettes collées sur les tiroirs.
„Hei ass el Pikto gramm Auer waat den Daagespofal vum Grupp duerstellt. All Daagrufen maer en Kand, waat d’Fotoan op d’Auer hänken darf. D’Kanner denken mat eis drun, fier d’Fotoen all Daagze wierselen. Si hun Spass drun an frean sech, wann si un d’Reih derfen kommen. Mat deser Auer kommen maer och mat mai an d’Situatioun vun „falschen Versprechungen“. Elo hun d’Kanner selwer virun Aan, waat als next um Programm steet.“
Structuring activities

Suite séquentielle avec photos qui permet aux enfants de mieux intégrer les différentes étapes nécessaires pour le lavage des mains.
Factors of success (Bolduc et al, 1998)

- The conviction of the professionals, so we have to believe in it.
- The motivation of the professionals, so we have to want it.
- Perseverance and trust of professionals, so we have to believe that we will get there.
- The flexibility of professionals, so we have to be adaptable.
- The creativity of the professionals, so we have to find original ways to promote inclusion.
